Taking of testimony was concluded shortly before noon. A number of witnesses testified that the signature on the permits to remove the whiskey from Belle of Anderson distillery near Lawrenceburg was not that of Albert F. Slater, former clerk in the office of the Pennsylvania Federal prohibition director, and one of the defendants with Langley.

SAMPSON PICTURE FOR HIGH COURT

Local Man and Other Descendants of Former Justice to Present
Portrait

With appropriate and impressive ceremonies a portrait of the late Judge William Sampson, of Glasgow, chief justice of the Kentucky Court of Appeals in 1866, will be presented to the Court of Appeals on May 20 by Judge J. R. Sampson, of Middlesboro, and William Sampson, of Harlan, son and grandson of the former chief justice and Mrs. J. Y. Wheat, of San Antonio, Tex., his daughter, and all the grandchildren of Judge William Sampson.

The presentation speech will be made by Judge Logan Porter, of Glasgow, who, though a young man at the time Judge Sampson served on the appellate bench, was a close friend of the jurist. Judge Sampson died in office, his death occurring three months after he was elected judge and chief justice of the court. The portrait of Judge Sampson was painted by Allen Swisha, of Lexington.

The Sampsons have constituted a strong legal chain for three generations. Judge J. R. Sampson who came to Middlesboro "as soon as any one else" in its early days has made this place his home. His son, William Sampson, who has been associated with him in practice, is located at Harlan.

The portrait of Judge J. R. Sampson's father has been finished for some time and is said to be an excellent likeness. Its addition to the highest court in the state will constitute a fitting monument to the services of the late Judge William Sampson on there.

New Steel Dining Cars for Southern

KNOXVILLE, May 10.—Southern railway officials in Knoxville have been notified that five new steel dining cars have been purchased by the Southern to be delivered in October. The new cars are the latest design and up to date in every respect. The company will have more than sixty dining and cafe parlor cars in service when new cars are delivered. These cars are used on the fast passenger trains including the New York and New Orleans Limited, the "Memphis Special" and other trains operating through Knoxville.

The new cars to be delivered in October are 78 feet in length and have seats for thirty-six passengers. The cars have large kitchen and pantry space and are very attractive in appearance.

Says Route By Middlesboro Is Best North From Florida

Having tried all routes from Ohio to Southern Florida, C. E. Buroker of Urbane, O., who, with Mrs. Buroker, are stopping at the Cumberland hotel, declares that the route via Middlesboro is by far the best.

The visitor has been to Florida five times in the same car and has been over every route on the map leading to the tourist centers. Stopping at the Middlesboro Motor company Friday he told L. R. Well, manager, that the route by Jacksonville, Maycross, Macon, Atlanta, Cleveland, Dalton, Middlesboro and Cincinnati is far the best. The trip south was made last fall and it required only seven days to St. Augustine. The route by Washington always required about ten days and by Louisville and Chattanooga about the same. He states that the road by Middlesboro is much better and the scenery far grander.

7 AUTO BANDITS GET NEAR $30,000

Hold Up Chicago Post Office and Escape With 4 Bags Registered Mail

By Associated Press.
CHICAGO, May 10.—Seven automobile bandits held up an East Chicago, Indiana, post office early today and escaped with four sacks of registered mail containing approximately $30,000, according to estimates of post office inspectors.

The robbers in an automobile followed the car containing the mail sack from the Pennsylvania Station to the post office. At the post office they held up five employees, quickly sorted the registered pouches from other mail, ran to the automobile and escaped. A squad of Chicago detectives rushed to the southeastern section of the city to patrol the roads.

ASPHALT FINISHED ON FITZPATRICK

Will Be Opened For Traffic Soon—
East End to Be Closed
Next Week

Asphalt paving on Fitzpatrick avenue has been finished and will be ready for traffic as soon as it has been rolled a few times. As work is to be done at the intersection of Cumberland avenue, however, it probably will not be opened all the way until the latter work is finished.

The concrete base on Fitzpatrick avenue was made last year and had been used by traffic since that time. Final completion of the work makes another good link in the Dixie Highway.

The East End will be closed to traffic early next week, it was announced today, in order that work there might progress without interruption. Concrete for the base of the new bridge on East Cumberland avenue will be poured Monday, according to present plans. Work of repairing the detour has been done by city prisoners this week.

Virginia Sick of Pay- As-You-Go Plan

LOUISVILLE, May 10.—Capt. Harvey White, city auditor, has just returned from a visit to his father and family near Roanoke, Va. While there he had an opportunity to discuss with business men and others the road problem.

He said the feeling is quite general in Virginia that the pay-as-you-go plan for building roads has broken down. Last November Virginia defeated a bond issue for building roads, Capt. White said, and today the people throughout the state regret the result very much. Working under the pay-as-you-go plan, he said, Virginia still has the tollgates, and farmers and motorists pay to travel over the public roads of the state, which are still very bad.

SAYS TURNBLAZER MISSTATED FACTS

Chattanooga Man Gives Version of Agreement With Miners

CHATTANOOGA, May 9.—John E. Patton, president of the Sewanee Fuel and Iron company, in a statement here declared that many mis-statements of the facts occurred in the address of President Turnblazer of District 19, before the State Federation of Labor here Tuesday in reference to the mine controversy.

"It is true that the original agreement between the Kentucky-Tennessee Association and the miners provided that the miners should select a second man to sit with the referee upon the questions involving wage reductions," But it is also true that such provisions had been eliminated by the board and with the consent of the miners," said Patton. "But the important and significant fact is the operators waive their right in this regard and pleaded with the miners to try the wage case even with an extra miner sitting with the referee."

Even this miners' representatives refused to do. Naturally these operators will never again deal with such representatives. Most of the operators involved are committed to the principal bargaining collectively with their own employees and they are perfectly willing to pay competitive wages."

Many See "Seventeen" In Pineville Last Night

A number of Middlesboro people motored to Pineville last night to see the excellent presentation by the University of Kentucky dramatic club, The Strollers, of Booth Tarkington's popular play, "Seventeen." Miss Mary Helburn of Middlesboro and Miss Jeanette Metcalf of Pineville both had parts in the play, making it of particular interest to people here.

While the plot was not so pretentious as those of plays which the Strollers have given before, the parts were probably more adapted to the young actors than any that have been seen here. Earl M. Heavrin as William Sylvanus Baxter, "Seventeen," was decidedly the star of the show and he and his sister, Jane, Miss Annette Kelley, were so true to life as to almost disconnect the whole thing from the stage. Miss Helburn took her part splendidly and showed particular dramatic talent in the natural way she interpreted her character.

ASKS BUSINESS TO APPLY TEN COMMANDMENTS

Hoover Addresses U. S.
Chamber Commerce
Meet

OFFERS SOLUTION

Legislation Clumsy, Remedies, Says
Secretary, But Offers
Effectual in Big Industries

By Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, O., May 1.—The plea for "less government in business" need not be made if industry itself will apply the Ten Commandments in its own conduct and correct the wrongs within itself, Secretary Hoover declared last night in an address at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Sounding the warning that the government will legislate against existing evils in business unless those evils are eliminated by business itself, the Secretary of Commerce appealed for adoption of a high standard of ethics to keep the government from injecting itself into commerce.

Mr. Hoover declared, however, that the field he primarily would discuss was "the great area of indirect economic wrong and unethical practices that spring up under the pressures of competition and habit."

"There is also," he added, "the great field of economic waste through destructive competition, through strikes, booms and clumps, unemployment, through failure of our different industries to synchronize and a hundred other causes which directly lower our productivity and employment. Waste may be abstractly unethical but in any event it can only be remedied by economic action."

"If we are to find solution to these collective issues outside of government regulation we must meet two practical problems:

Must Be Enforcement
"First, there must be organization in such form as can establish the standards of conduct in this vast complex of shifting invention, production, and use. There is no existing basis to check the failure of service or the sacrifice of public interest. Some one must determine such standards. They must be determined and held flexibly in tune with the intense technology of trade.

"Second, there must be some sort of enforcement. There is the perpetual difficulty of a small minority who will not play the game. They too often bring disrepute upon the vast majority; they drive many others to adopt unfair competitive methods which all deplore; their abuses give rise to public indignation and clamor which breed legislative action.

"I believe we now for the first time have the method at hand for voluntarily organized determination of standards and their adoption. I would go further, I believe we are, in the presence of a new era in the organization of industry and commerce in which, if properly directed, the forces pregnant with infinite possibilities or moral progress. I believe that we are, almost unnoticed, in the midst of a great revolution—or perhaps a better word, a transformation in the whole super-organization of our economic life. We are passing from a period of extremely individualistic action into a period of associational activities.

World Organized
"Practically our entire American working world is now organized into some form of economic association. We have trade associations and trade institutes, Chambers of Commerce, labor unions, associations embracing all the different professions, farmers' associations, and we have the enormous growth of farmers' cooperatives for actual dealing in commodities. Of indirect kin to this is the great increase in ownership of industries by their employees, and customers, and again we have a tremendous expansion of mutual insurance and banking.

"Associational activities are, I believe, driving upon a new road where the objectives can be made wholly and vitally of public interest. The legitimate Trade Associations and Chambers of Commerce with which I am now primarily concerned, possess certain characteristics of social importance and the widest differentiation from pools and trusts. Their membership must be open to all members in the industry or trade, or riv-

CONVICT CORBIN BOY BANK ROBBER

Get 10 to 25 Year Term in Indiana
Prison—Arrested in Brazil

GREENFIELD, Ind., May 10.—Martin McHargue, age twenty-three, of Corbin, Ky., pleaded guilty to a charge of auto banditry in the Hancock circuit court, and was sentenced to a term of ten to twenty-five years in the Indiana Reformatory by Judge James T. Walker.

McHargue, with two other men, robbed the Citizens Bank at Charlottesville at noon on April 16, while Miss Coda Collins, assistant cashier, was alone in the bank, and escaped with $2,000. McHargue was arrested in Brazil Friday and brought to this city.

McHargue was arrested by operatives of the H. C. Webster Detective Agency of Indianapolis. He was identified by Eugene Hinton, a taxicab driver, of Indianapolis, as one of the men who over-powered him on the day of the robbery and held him captive until after the robbery was committed. After he was identified by Hinton, McHargue made a statement to Webster, which he signed, confessing his part in the robbery, Webster said.

McHargue fled to Brazil after the robbery, Webster said, and spent part of the money he obtained in buying an automobile.

Cars Now Being Kept Off Cumberland Ave.

Request of the commissioner of public safety that motorists cease the practice of leaving their cars on Cumberland avenue between Eleventh and Twenty-second streets during the early hours of the morning is now being obeyed by all previous offenders to the ordinance.

Otto Lawson who flushes the streets daily between 2 and 6 a. m. reports that the street was clear of cars for the entire four blocks yesterday morning and that the work was greatly facilitated by the thoughtfulness of automobile owners. Those who left cars thus parked on mornings earlier in the week were cited to appear in the city court for traffic law violations.

Franklin Circuit Judge Holds Bill
Illegal, Technical Violation of State Constitution

By Associated Press.
FRANKFORT, May 10.—Governor Fields today said he was considering the advisability of calling an extra session of the legislature in event the $75,000,000 state bond issue was defeated. "I will call the session to enact an income tax law," he said and would make no further comment.

Judge Ben G. Williams of the Franklin Circuit Court Thursday declared that the bond issue was unconstitutional by the Court constitutionally, because he said it violates the section of the state constitution which provides that a legislative measure can contain only one subject. The Kentucky Good Roads Association immediately appealed the measure to the Court of Appeals where decision on it is promised before June 25, the recess time of the court's spring session.

MAMMOTH CAVE FOR STATE PARK

Geologist Tells Wonders of Kentucky
Wonder Cave—Mentions
Harlan Tract

By Associated Press.
LEXINGTON, May 10.—In any serious consideration of state park sites the Mammoth Cave, in Edmonson county, Kentucky, "a world wonder of the first order," must necessarily take first place, Dr. Willard Rouse Jilison, state geologist, chairman of the Kentucky State Park Commission, and president of the Kentucky Academy of Science, declared today in an address before that body.

The proposal to establish a number of well-selected points broadly distributed throughout Kentucky a group of state parks is not altogether a new one, he said.

"From time to time during the last decade suggestions looking to this end have been made by various civic organizations in Kentucky and have received some attention in the state press," he said.

"A serious of seriously intended though unsuccessful attempts to federalize the Mammoth Cave region during the last 20 years may be interpreted as an expression of popular desire for a large outdoor recreational center selected because of its physical uniqueness and natural charm."

"First of the new state parks and the nucleus about which others may eventually be grouped is the state forestry tract of about thirty four hundred acres on Pine Mountain in Harlan county and 'The Old Kentucky Home' near Bardonia in Nelson county," he summarized.

"The first of these was acquired by gift of deed in 1919 and the latter by popular subscription in 1921-22," Dr. Jilison said.

"Each is to be maintained in perpetuity by the state. 'The Old Kentucky Home' has been rehabilitated and is now functioning splendidly as a state park—a suitable shrine for all Kentuckians."

The president's conclusions were that within the last few years the marked growth of Kentucky's larger cities, the rapidly extension of her systems of highways and the imminence of the loss for all time of a number of justly famous natural areas such as Mammoth Cave and Cumberland Falls are seen as the outstanding reasons for a well organized and state-wide public park movement in Kentucky.

By Associated Press.
LEXINGTON, May 10.—The eleven annual meeting of the Kentucky Academy of Science will be held here at the University of Kentucky today.

The program includes papers and lectures on some of the important research projects carried on in Kentucky during the last year and the general interest of the subjects makes this program one which will appeal to the public as well as to scientists. President W. R. Jilison commented last night.

The forenoon session will begin at 9:30 a. m. and following a short business session, and the election of new members President Jilison will deliver an address illustrated with slides on "The Geology of Some Proposed Kentucky State Parks."

"The papers which will be read present subjects of such general interest as the Cumberland county oil horizons, the last wild pigeon in Kentucky, the messes of Kentucky and farmers' learnings and standard of living in an agricultural area of Northern Kentucky.

"One of the features of the afternoon session will be a lecture in the afternoon by Dr. L. C. Glenn of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., on the "Stratigraphy and Structure of the Western Kentucky Coal Field." This lecture will be illustrated with lantern slides depicting some aspects of the human and economic geography of the region, and should be of especial interest to all those concerned with learning more of the varied features of Kentucky.

MOTHERS OF MEN

Because to-morrow is Mother's Day, most of us are thinking today of our mothers, living and dead—our mothers to whom we owe our lives, our characters, our ideals. Foreigners disparage Americans for having no sentiment but there is in the being of every one of us, when he thinks of his mother, a feeling deeper than any surface sentiment, a willing of appreciation for the debt he never can repay his mother. At that, how little we sense the battles they have fought for us, what struggles they have waged all unknown to the world.
Warriors, Jouquin Miller calls them, in his poem, "Mothers of Men," one of the greatest tributes to mothers in American literature. It follows:

"The bravest battle that ever was fought,
Shall I tell you where and when?
On the maps of the world you will find it not;
'Twas fought by the mothers of men.

"Nay, not with a cannon or battle shot,
With sword or nobler pen;
Nay, not with eloquent words or thought
From mouths of wonderful men.

"But deep in a walled up woman's heart—
Of woman that would not yield,
But bravely, silently bore her part,
Lo, there was the battlefield.

"No marshaling troops, no bivouac song,
No banner to gleam and wave;
But, oh, these battles they last so long,
From babyhood to the grave!

"Yet faithful still as a bride of stars,
She fights in her walled up town—
Fights on and on in the endless wars,
Then silent—unseen—goes down.

"Oh, ye with banners and battle shot,
And soldiers to shout and praise,
I tell you the kingliest victories fought
Were fought in these silent ways.

"Oh! spotless woman in a world of shame!
With a splendid and silent scorn,
Go back to God as white as you came,
The Kingliest warrior born!"

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

As a natural result of the modern tendency to specialize on business trends, business opinion has formed the habit of marching up the hill and then marching down again.

By this we do not mean to convey the idea that it is not a good plan to watch developments closely. There can be no question but that it is. What we do mean is that it is possible to pay too much attention to fluctuations which are really temporary or local in their character and which do not greatly affect the total results of a year's business. If, in making comparisons for the purpose of determining present and future policies, those modifying circumstances which affect trading conditions in one period as against another are not recognized, the results obtained are likely to be somewhat misleading.

An excellent example of this may be found in Department store sales in this District during March. Comparing that month with the corresponding month of last year, a decrease of 9.7 per cent is shown. When total sales for the first quarter of this year are compared with the first three months of 1923, however, an increase of 3.5 per cent is shown in spite of the March decline. The drop in March was due to the fact that Easter trade last year came in March while this year the bulk of it came in April. Unseasonable weather, too, was to a certain extent responsible.

Building operations in the Fourth Federal Reserve District furnish another illustration, although the results of the comparison are just the opposite. The total valuation of permits issued in thirteen of the largest cities for March of this year shows an increase of 1.4 per cent over March 1923, while the valuation of permits issued in the same cities during the first quarter of this year is 9.2 per cent under that of the 1923 period.

We offer these illustrations to show that mistakes in comparison may be made unless proper consideration is given to the time element and to other contributing factors.

In regard to the present business situation. The first manifestation of this came with the appearance of an uncertain mental attitude throughout the country. It is more definite now. The commitments of buyers which are in reality the backbone of all business are showing this hesitancy. Furthermore, production, now closely linked with the buyers on account of the general policy of hand-to-mouth purchasing, has immediately felt the reaction, the Federal Reserve Board's index of production in basic industries showing a decline in March of 3 per cent as against an increase during February of 1 per cent. Production, however, is still at a high level compared with any year except 1923.—Monthly Business Review.

Masters of Music

GIUSEPPI VERDI

EDWARD MACDOWELL

My dream is to hear a performance of one of Verdi's works in his own country. There it is at home, on its own soil, full of the warmth and light of the Italian scene.

It is impossible to think of Verdi apart from the Resorgimento, the unification of Italy. He is the musician of that period and his music completely embodies it.

Italy is also the nation of Palestrina, Monteverdi, Corelli, Scarlatti, and many other great musicians, but they represent an entirely different period. They are musicians of Rome, Florence, Naples, not of "Italy." Great posters on which were printed were to be seen all over Italy in the middle of the last century. They express in a very striking way the association which Verdi had in the popular mind, with the political movements which made one nation of the Italian people. He is the color, the soul, the enthusiasm, of that period.

Besides, he was a great musician. Greatness is above all else the power of growth. From his first awkward attempts to his last work, "Falstaff," written when he was nearly eighty years old, his history was one of continual growth.

He is a patrician, an aristocrat; there is a dignity in his music, even when it is most "popular" in character. Aida seems fresher, more colorful, more original today than a vast quantity of so-called "modern" works.

RESOLUTIONS ON BURNING OF HONEYCUP CREAM PLANT.

A promising industrial plant of our city was practically destroyed by fire Wednesday night.

It was a source of pride to the citizens of this city and was a distinct asset to our business activities and a necessity to this section.

In view of the loss that has been sustained by owners and by this city, the Kiwanis Club takes this form of expressing its regret over the occurrence and of extending its sympathy to the stock holders of the Honey Cup Ice Cream Co. and to the stockholders of the Ky. Utilities Co. for the loss which they have incurred.

It is the further sense of this club that a copy of these resolutions be printed and a copy mailed to the management of the companies affected.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

The next place Mister Muggs took the Twins in Once-Upon-a-Time Land was to see the Poor Cobbler.

Although indeed he was not poor now. He was very, very rich and needed to cobble no longer for a living.

However, riches had not spoiled him, and he was out in the yard under a tree smoking his old pipe and blowing great puffs of smoke into the air.

"We came to see you and your good wife," called Mister Muggs when he had parked the little car outside the gate. "May we come in?"

"Of course, of course!" said the kindly cobbler. "Come right in and I'll call Sally and we can have a party. I think she has just made some fresh cookies, and the Jersey cow gives rich milk."

After Nancy had had six cookies and Nick eight, the cobbler told his story.

"We were very, very poor," he said. "Somehow or other everything had gone wrong. Sometimes I was sick, sometimes my wife was sick, and sometimes both of us together. Our savings in the teapot on the mantelpiece got less and less and less and finally disappeared completely."

For it is not notes that count, but what is behind the notes. It is because Lincoln and Whitman loved, understood, identified themselves with the soul of their country, that they could serve it and interpret it. They had the supreme gift of looking at life simply and directly, of trusting their own soul.

They turned simply to life in all its manifestations. They opened their eyes and their hearts. They were neither dry pedants nor shallow amateurs—neither were they religious fanatics, seeking to repress the vital instincts in themselves and in others. They were not obsessed, either, with the idea of racial supremacy, despising the older and more subtle civilizations of Europe and Asia. And least of all did they believe that life could be made better by formulas.

They had the real intuition, which cannot be taught, but which is a gift of God to the hearts of men, about the mission of their great country. They saw what the "melting pot" might become. They saw what the free association of all races under a common law, could give humanity, through the free expansion of all their riches, the accumulated and amalgamated treasures of their individual and racial souls. This is what America could become; and the one who sees it, understands it, and transmutates it into music will be the real American musician.

Edward MacDowell, however, may be called a true representative of art music in America. MacDowell's pieces possess clear individuality. They are unlike the music of any European master, although, to be sure, there are some European influences perceptible in it.

"Then we watched again. The little men came and when they saw the new clothes they shouted for joy. Then they put the things on and disappeared. We have never seen them since."

"But a queer thing happened. I had bought some green leather—enough for two pairs of shoes. It disappeared with them."

"They must have made magic shoes and given them to the Fairy Queen," cried Nancy. "And she gave them to us."

Middlesboro, Pineville, Barbourville High, Southeastern Kentucky Baptist Institute and other schools will participate. If sufficient number of schools are entered medals will be given to the winners, a cup to the high point man, and a cup to the winning school. Many Will Attend Sunday School Rally

A large number of people from this county and adjacent parts of Tennessee and Virginia are expected to attend the Sunday School rally at Boone's Monument on the mountain road Sunday. The event is being planned by the Middlesboro View Baptist church and the public, particularly Sunday school members of the three states, is invited to attend.

An elaborate program featuring some excellent speakers has been planned and there will be singing throughout the day. Visitors are requested to bring their lunches so that there may be an old-time "dinner-on-the-ground" affair. In the event of rain the picnicers will spend the day indoors at the church. The congregation will meet at the church at 9 o'clock Sunday morning and march to the monument where the exercises will be held.

trade, or they can not hold together. The total interdependence of all industries and commerce compels them in the long run to go parallel to the general economic good. Their leaders rise in a real democracy without bosses or political manipulation. Citizens can not run away from their country if they do not like the political management, but members of voluntary associations can resign and the association dies.

"I believe that through these forces we are slowly moving toward some sort of industrial democracy. We are upon its threshold, if these agencies can be directed solely to constructive performance in the public interest.

"All this does contain some dangers, but they will come only from low ethical standards. With these agencies used as the machinery for the cultivation and spread of high standards and the elimination of abuses, I am convinced that we shall have entered the great era of self-governing industry and business which has been a dream to many thinkers."

Referring to the penetration of the business world by legislation, Mr. Hoover declared it was because there was an abuse somewhere. "Legislative action," he added, "is always clumsy—it is incapable of adjustment to shifting needs. It often enough produces new economic currents more abusive than those intended to be cured."

Muddled Thought
"In these times of muddled thought it is sometimes worth repeating a truism. Industry and commerce are not based on taking advantage of other persons. Their foundations lie in the division of labor and exchange of products. For through specialization we increase the total and variety of production and secure its diffusion into consumption."

"And our homemade Bolshevik-minded critics to the contrary, the whole economic structure of our nation and the survival of our high general levels of comfort are dependent upon the maintenance and development of leadership in the world of industry and commerce."

Urging industry to search for methods by which it can develop and enforce its own standards, Secretary Hoover pointed to recent work of the Commerce Department in aiding the lumber industry to agree upon certain standards for the conduct of its business, and as an example of what may be done to correct evils referred to recent adjustments in the bituminous coal industry.

Many bills were introduced in Congress to correct the evils in that industry, he stated, and government commissions had examined the question but the real step toward eliminating the difficulties was taken when railroads were induced to build more cars, operators agreed to put more coal in storage during slack market seasons, and the men signed contracts to keep production up.

METHODISTS TO BEGIN REVIVAL

Lexington Pastor Starts Meetings Monday Night—Made by Grayson Trio

The Rev. M. T. Chandler, pastor of the Epworth M. E. Church, South, at Lexington is scheduled to be here Monday night to conduct an evangelistic campaign at the local M. E. Church, South, which begins on that date.

The Rev. Chandler who has served in Kentucky in evangelistic campaigns and other church work is recognized as one of the best Bible preachers in the entire country. He is a forceful speaker and well qualified to conduct an evangelistic campaign that will touch the entire city.

One of the most remarkable qualifications of the Rev. Chandler is his memory. It is said that he knows practically the entire Bible by heart, that he always "reads" it during the service without looking at it.

The Grayson Trio will furnish the music for the services. It is composed of Miss Anna Giles, two Blankenship sisters of Grayson. They have built up an enviable reputation as singers and song leaders and have assisted in services in many of the large cities. They were in charge of the musical service at the church in Huntington, W. Va., where the Rev. W. K. McClure, pastor of the local church, recently conducted an evangelistic campaign.

CHRISTIAN REVIVAL CLOSING TOMORROW

Great Good Felt Here During Services—Music and Sermons Praised

The revival at the Christian Church continues and last night Dr. Scott preached to a crowded house. Three came forward at the invitation to join the church. Probably the greatest good of the meeting has been done among those already members. Dr. Scott preaches a whole Gospel and the spiritual life of all the church has been quickened.

To-morrow night will be the last sermon. A great day will be entered into by the church Sunday and probably there will be more of the members at the communion service than has ever been in the history of the church. One of the features of the meeting has been the singing of Miss Warren.

Dr. Scott wishes to thank the members of the other churches for their interest and help, and especially the preachers for their many courtesies. The subject to-night is "Waiting for a More Convenient Season."

TRAGEDY

By J. M. Old

Your mind is darkened now, and all is dread

Where confidence once looked through shining eyes

That proudly smiled. Your laughter, too, is dead.

Down what strange ways you wander none may know.

You walk alone, and I, who looked with pride

Upon your vigour once, now watch you go

With halting steps along a futile road

That has no ending. . . . Though I yearn to come

And cheer your lonely soul, and ease your load,

It cannot be. Far off I stand and pray

That you have kept some memory of me

To brighten, for a space, your fearful way.

IT SURELY MUST HAVE BEEN A DODGE BROTHERS ALL STEEL BODY

NEWS ITEM:

"After his automobile had turned a complete somersault and landed with a crash in the bottom of a sixty foot hole in Omaha, Nebraska, the driver climbed out of the hole with a bruised side and his pipe between his teeth."

The foregoing news item would sound altogether "fishy" were it not for the fact that this astounding performance was duplicated just beyond the Harrogate tunnel in January 1923, when a DODGE BROTHERS all steel coupe left the road on the mountainside, turned over more than twenty times in its descent and landed safely at the bottom; the driver sustaining cuts on body from broken glass.

Scored Ice Your Protection against Short Weight

As another step in our efforts to protect our customers and assure them that they will GET ALL the ICE THEY PAY FOR, our drivers will hereafter, only deliver ice that has been MACHINE SCORED before leaving our factory, thus assuring FULL WEIGHT at all times.

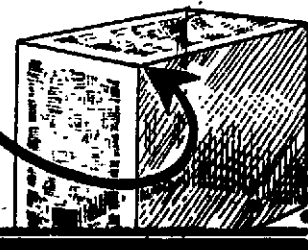

SCORED ICE marked at the factory eliminates the old haphazard guesswork of the driver, guarantees uniform size and full weight, saves time and labor in handling with the result that the public receive more prompt and efficient service.

Though the driver be honest, he is not infallible and oft-times with the best intentions, his guess in sub-dividing a 300 or 400 pound cake of ICE into 25 and 50 pound pieces, by the old chopping method, results in underweight, while the dishonest driver reaps a harvest at the expense of the CUSTOMER and ICE MANUFACTURER through short weight.

SCORED ICE with its border on the edge of each piece is our guarantee of full weight and protects you from carelessness and dishonesty, assuring and guaranteeing 100% delivery on the ICE you pay for.

In place of getting just a formless chunk of ICE, doubtful in weight, look for the SCORED BORDER along the edge of each piece of ICE. It is your protection.
